New-combination error is three to five times the repeatability of a plate